My philosophy is simple—it’s the job of the designer to help the client realize the home of their dreams. I don’t instill my personal aesthetic preferences on my clients. Rather, I bring a wealth of experience, a professional’s trained eye, access to a world of fabulous materials and objects, and a stable of tried and true craftsmen to help you achieve your own unique vision. I can help you create the home you’ve always imagined, but I can also share a vision that you may never have imagined.

“Sara’s considerable design talents are matched by her grace and professionalism. She facilitates a process which allows you to discover your unique sensibilities and vision. Always thinking about what is functional, and never compromising on balance or aesthetics, the results are beautiful, individual and practical. The process feels organic and collaborative, never as if her own vision is being imposed on me, and always there is a sense of fun and discovery.”
